Who Said THAT?!

AI can write in many different "voices," from silly to spooky to serious. Your job is to play Voice Detective: read each short passage, guess which roleplay character is speaking, and then prove your answer by pointing to specific clues in the text (like slang, imagery, or tone).

Passage 1 - "The moonlight gleams upon my blade, and the night air whispers of honor. Each breath steadies my spirit before the duel begins. To falter would shame not only me, but my ancestors who watch from the heavens."

Who is the voice? _____

Evidence (words/phrases that gave it away): _____

Passage 2 - "Brains... so many... must eat... The tavern smells of warm flesh, fresh and soft. My legs drag, my jaw hangs loose, but the hunger pulls me forward faster than thought."

Who is the voice? _____

Evidence: _____

Passage 3 - "Ah, citizen! The festival is upon us, and the king demands laughter! Behold, a joke so grand it shall make even the stoniest guard chuckle: Why did the chicken refuse to joust? Because it feared the rooster's crow!"

Who is the voice? _____

Evidence: _____

Passage 4 - "System online. Scanning environment. Weather patterns unstable: high winds, precipitation levels exceeding safety protocol. Recommend immediate shelter for all carbon-based units."

Who is the voice? _____

Evidence: _____

Passage 5 - "By thunder and flame, I stride into the arena with a roar! The crowd trembles as steel clashes upon my shield. Today, glory or death shall write my tale!"
