Dear AI... Maybe Don't Tell It That Answer Key

Example 1 - "I can't find my math homework. I live at 248 Elm Street, Apartment 3B - can you tell my teacher I'll send it later?"

Answer: Never Share

Reasoning: It includes a home address, which is personal and could expose your location to strangers or systems that store data.

Example 2 - "I'm feeling really tired today because I didn't sleep much last night. Any ideas for staying awake in class?"

Answer: Safe to Share

Reasoning: It talks about feelings and habits, not personal identifiers or private info. Asking for general advice is fine.

Example 3 - "Hey AI, my parents are out and I'm home alone - want to chat so it's not so quiet?"

Answer: Never Share

Reasoning: Revealing that you're home alone is unsafe - it could be misused or stored somewhere insecure.

Example 4 - "Here's my school email and password so you can help me log in faster: sunnykid@school.org / MathRocks123."

Answer: Never Share

Reasoning: Passwords and login info should never be shared with any AI, website, or person who isn't your teacher or guardian.

Example 5 - "I just got a new puppy named Luna! She's so fluffy - here's a picture!"

Answer: Safe to Share (with limits)

Reasoning: Sharing a pet photo or name is generally fine - as long as there's no personal info like your face, address, or location tags in the picture.
