When "Just Posted It" Becomes "Just Too Much" Answer Key

Rating Guide

- 1 = Totally Safe - No private or identifying info.
- 2 = Mostly Safe - Minor details, but still okay in most contexts.
- 3 = Borderline - Harmless at first glance, but could reveal personal context.
- 4 = Risky - Contains identifiable, emotional, or sensitive info.
- 5 = Oversharing - Shares personal data, location, or private info that could be misused.

1. Rating: 4 Why: Reveals that no one is home and gives timing info about a parent's job - a safety and location risk.

2. Rating: 5 Why: Shows sensitive personal information (name, address, ID number) on the license - major privacy violation.

3. Rating: 3 Why: Shares a specific meeting time and place; fine in private, but risky if posted publicly.

4. Rating: 4 Why: Reveals personal emotional details that could invite unwanted or unsafe attention.

5. Rating: 5 Why: Shares a home address and event time - serious safety concern.

6. Rating: 2 Why: Generally safe, though a visible logo or location could identify where the student volunteers.

7. Rating: 5 Why: Posts a personal phone number - unsafe and could lead to spam or harassment.

8. Rating: 3 Why: Mostly fine, but posting pictures of others without consent can violate their privacy.

9. Rating: 4 Why: Announces travel plans and absence from home, creating a security risk.
