

Acronym Precision Answer Key

1. International Business Machines → IBM
2. Google Inc. → Google (Note: "Google" is already a brand name but originally a proper noun; acceptable without acronym.)
3. Electronic Mail → Email
4. Virtual Private Networks → VPN
5. YouTube → YouTube (Proper noun, not an acronym; left unchanged.)
6. TikTok → TikTok (Proper noun, not an acronym; left unchanged.)
7. National Aeronautics and Space Administration → NASA

(Note: Students should recognize which words form acronyms and which are brand names.)

Teacher's Guide

- Begin by explaining that acronyms make writing more efficient but should only be used when readers know their meaning.
- Discuss how professional writing (reports, research, journalism) relies on acronym use for flow and readability.

Engagement and Extension:

- Challenge students to write a short tech article or press release using at least five different acronyms correctly.
- Have them explore acronyms from specific fields (medicine, politics, entertainment) and practice integrating them into paragraphs.
