A Day Full of Letters

When Ella woke up, her phone buzzed with a GPS alert—her friend Maya had already started biking toward their favorite café. Ella quickly connected to the Wi-Fi to check messages before heading out. Her dad reminded her to bring the USB drive with her homework file saved on it.

At the café, the girls watched a funny GIF on Maya's tablet and laughed until they almost spilled their drinks. After breakfast, they rode to the park and listened to music on a small MP3 player. Later, Ella's mom texted that dinner would be ready, and the family planned to watch a movie on DVD after. As the day ended, Ella realized how often she used acronyms without even noticing—it was like a secret language hidden in everyday life!
