I is walking through the science fair with my classmates. The projects is set up on long tables in the gym. My best friend Ella and I am standing by our volcano model. We are proud because it really works! The teachers is walking around and asking questions. One of them say, "This is amazing!" The students are smiling and cheering for one another. The principal and the judges is taking notes while the lava bubbles out. I are so excited to see who wins the first-place ribbon.
