Analyzing Information in Text

Read the passage:

Jasmine loved her school's science fair. This year, she wanted to do something different. While her classmates built volcanoes or solar system models, Jasmine decided to design a robot that could help clean her room. She spent weeks collecting old toys, wires, and computer parts. There were times when the robot didn't work, and she wanted to give up, but her older brother encouraged her to keep trying. On the day of the fair, Jasmine's robot worked perfectly. It picked up small objects and even folded a shirt. Although she didn't win first place, many people crowded around her table, asking questions and cheering her on. Jasmine smiled and said, "Next year, I'll make it even better."
