Teacher's Guide

- Read the survey results with students before they begin graphing.
- Remind students that each line represents 1 vote and each bar should start at 0.
- For extra support, have students place a dot at the correct height for each pet before drawing the bars.
- For a challenge, have students compare two completed bars and state how many more votes one pet received.
- Increase engagement by letting students predict which bar will be tallest before completing the graph.
- Extend the activity by conducting a real class pet survey and creating a new bar graph from the results.
