Teacher's Guide

- Help students say each phoneme separately before changing the targeted sound. This builds strong phonemic manipulation skills.
- Allow use of letter tiles to physically swap sounds for tactile learners.
- Encourage students to check whether their new word is a real word or a silly one. Both are acceptable but noticing the difference reinforces decoding.
- Extension ideas: Have students complete a sound-switch chain (cat → hat → hot → hog → dog), sort their new words by vowel sound, or write a simple sentence using one of the new real words they created.
