

Name _____

The Lesson Behind the Chocolate

Directions: Stories often teach readers a bigger lesson, also called a moral. Think about what happens to each of the golden ticket winners and to Charlie. Then, answer the questions below and write a short response about the moral of the story.

1. What happens to each of the greedy or selfish children in the factory?

2. What happens to Charlie at the end of the story?

3. Based on these events, what lesson do you think Roald Dahl wanted readers to learn?

Writing Task: Write a short paragraph explaining the moral of the story.

- State the moral clearly.
- Use examples of what happens to the characters.
- Explain why this lesson is important for readers.
