Teacher's Guide

- Review prefix meanings before beginning: re- means again, pre- means before, and un- means not.
- Model one example by breaking the word into prefix and base word, then determining the meaning.
- For differentiation, provide color-coded prefix cards that match each meaning or allow students to underline prefixes before coloring.
- Encourage students to say each word aloud to confirm whether its meaning fits the color category.
- For engagement, let students work in partners and check each other's color choices after completing the list.
- For extension, challenge students to add two more words to each color category and color them correctly.
