Teacher's Guide

- Review the common prefixes re-, un-, and pre- before students begin. Ask students to predict meanings using prefixes alone.
- Encourage students to read the full story once without filling in blanks to build context.
- For differentiation, reduce the word bank or provide sentence stems that hint at the correct meaning.
- Let students read their completed stories aloud to check for flow and meaning.
- For engagement, have students act out one scene using their chosen prefixed words.
- For extension, invite students to write one additional sentence using a different prefixed word that could fit into the same story.
