

Name _____

Alienation to Morality Answer Key

1. "He was crushed by poverty, but more than that—by the sense of his own isolation." → A (Alienation)
2. "The man who has a conscience suffers whilst acknowledging his sin. That is his punishment." → M (Morality)
3. "It was not the old woman he had killed, but himself." → M (Morality)
4. "He knelt at her feet. At that moment, the dawn of a new future, of full resurrection, began for him." → R (Redemption)
5. "He longed to be alone, to shut himself in his little room and brood in silence." → A (Alienation)
6. "Through Sonia's eyes, he saw that confession and suffering were the only path to peace." → R (Redemption)

Reflection Key Insight:

- Strong responses should recognize that Dostoevsky intertwines the three themes: Raskolnikov's alienation leads to crime, his morality torments him afterward, and finally redemption is possible through Sonia and confession.
- Many students may argue redemption is emphasized most because the novel ends with Raskolnikov's rebirth, showing Dostoevsky's belief that suffering has spiritual purpose.