

Through the Microscope

Observe & Describe – Small Part, Big Detail

Choose one object from the list below and focus only on a tiny part of it. Don't describe the whole thing! Instead, describe it as if you're looking at it through a magnifying glass.

Objects:

- The handle of an old teapot
- The edge of a tattered book page
- The surface of a metal coin
- The seam of a well-worn leather glove
- The label on a glass medicine bottle
- The key teeth of a rusty skeleton key

Write It Out: Your Close-Up Description

Write a vivid paragraph (4–6 sentences) describing the small part of the object you chose. Use sensory details: texture, color, wear, smell, pattern, and even sound or imagined movement.

Example opening lines:

- The handle of the teapot curled like a tired vine, its surface pitted and cool beneath my fingers...
- Along the edge of the book page, the paper looked like tiny torn waves, yellowed with whispers of age...
