1. Explorer's Compass Description:

An aged brass compass stored in a worn canvas pouch. It's covered in scratches and mud, with a dented lid and a barely visible map inside. Despite the wear, the needle still works, showing it was likely used during rugged travels.

2. Victorian Teacup Description:

A dainty porcelain teacup with gold-trimmed edges and floral designs. It has a nearly invisible crack and some leftover tea stains. The handle is gracefully shaped, likely once held by someone from a refined background.
