Teacher's Guide

- Differentiation Tips:
 - Provide a two column adjective and sensory word list with one side urban and one side natural.
 - Encourage the use of sentence frames for emerging writers such as In the city, I notice... or In the natural space, the air feels...
 - Allow students to brainstorm in pairs before writing.
- Engagement Ideas:
 - Play short sound clips of an urban space and a natural landscape to help students visualize each setting.
 - Invite students to swap descriptions with a partner and identify each other's most vivid phrases.
 - Ask students to illustrate one of their settings to deepen detail awareness.
- Extension Ideas:
 - Have students combine both settings into a single descriptive scene that shifts between environments.
 - Challenge students to write a narrative opening that uses their natural or urban description as the setting backdrop.
 - Create a class display comparing student examples of urban and natural imagery.
