Make It, Solve It

Directions: Read the passage carefully. Instead of answering pre-made questions, you will create your own:

- Write one Literal question (can be answered directly from the text).
- Write one Inferential question (requires reading between the lines or connecting details).
- Write one Evaluative question (asks for an opinion, judgment, or bigger idea).

After writing each question, provide a model answer for it.

Jamal had always admired the library in his town. The tall, arched windows let sunlight spill across rows of shelves, making the place feel warm and inviting. Every Saturday morning, he rode his bike there to borrow new books. He often sat in the corner chair by the history section, losing track of time while reading.

One weekend, Jamal discovered a display about local heroes from the town's past. He learned that the library had once been used as a community meeting hall during difficult times. Reading their stories made him feel connected to his town in a new way. As Jamal checked out his books that day, he realized that the library wasn't just about reading; it was about history, community, and belonging.
