Voice Of The Planet

Directions: Imagine you wake up one morning-not as yourself, but as Planet Earth! Write a one-page creative story in the first person (using "I" statements). Describe what you see, feel, and wish you could tell humans about how they treat you. Be honest, emotional, or even funny; just make sure your story has a clear message about caring for the environment.

Writing Prompt: "You open your eyes and realize you are Planet Earth. You can feel the oceans rushing through your veins and the forests breathing across your surface. Humans are busy on your lands; some helping, some harming. What message would you send to them if they could finally hear your voice?"

Use these questions to guide your writing:

- How do you feel when you see forests being cut down or rivers being cleaned?
- What parts of yourself are most beautiful, and what parts are hurting?
- What do you want humans to start or stop doing?
- How would you thank those who care for you?

Write your story below or on a separate page. Use sensory details and emotions to make Planet Earth come alive!
