Name _____

Group Timing

Directions: Read each short dialogue carefully. Look for body language, tone, or facial expressions that show whether it's a good or bad time to join or leave. Then answer the question that follows each dialogue.

1. Liam and Sara are laughing together about a funny memory. When Mia walks up, they look at her and smile, pausing their story.

Question: What nonverbal cue shows it's a good time to join?

A. They keep whispering to each other.
B. They walk away without speaking.
C. They turn away from her.
D. They look at her and smile.

2. Chris walks up to his group of friends, who are talking seriously about a disagreement. They have crossed arms and serious expressions.

Question: What should Chris do?

A. Jump in with a joke.
B. Start talking loudly.
C. Wait until they finish.
D. Ask them to stop.

3. During lunch, Nora's friends are chatting and laughing. She sees an empty seat, and they wave her over to join.

Question: What nonverbal signal tells Nora it's a good time to enter?

A. They wave and smile.
B. They roll their eyes.
C. They move their chairs away.
D. They ignore her completely.

4. Ethan is working on a project with a partner. The bell rings, and his partner starts packing up and waving goodbye.

Question: What cue tells Ethan it's time to exit the activity?

A. His partner keeps asking questions.
B. His partner packs up and waves goodbye.
C. His partner begins a new topic.
D. His partner looks away but stays seated.

5. Jada and her friends are talking in a circle. One friend suddenly checks her watch, sighs, and starts picking up her bag.

Question: What cue tells Jada that her friend is ready to leave?

A. The friend smiles and nods.
B. The friend sighs and gathers her things.
C. The friend starts a new story.
D. The friend laughs and leans in.