The Battle of the Prompts

Not all prompts are created equal. Some are messy, vague, or confusing. Others are sharp, clear, and powerful. Your mission: become the judge of clarity.

Here's what to do: Read all the versions of the same prompt. Rank them from weakest (least clear) to strongest (most clear). Explain why you ranked them that way. Think of yourself as a "prompt detective." The clues are in word choice, detail, and how answerable the prompt is.

Round 1: Sports

- Version A: Talk about sports.
- Version B: Write about why soccer is good.
- Version C: Compare how basketball and soccer are played, including at least two similarities and two differences.
- Version D: In a short paragraph, explain why teamwork is important in sports, using one example.

Your Ranking (weakest → strongest):

1. _____ 2. _____ 3. _____ 4. _____

Why? _____

Round 2: Space

- Version A: Tell me about space.
- Version B: Write two facts about the Moon.
- Version C: Explain why astronauts need spacesuits and what features help them survive.
- Version D: In 5-7 sentences, describe how space exploration has changed from the Apollo missions to today's Mars rovers.
