

Name _____

Genres of Literature

Instructions: Read each passage carefully. Consider the tone, content, setting, and purpose. Then write the genre that best fits each passage. Each genre is listed only once.

Passages

1. The rocket shuddered as it broke through Earth's atmosphere. Lieutenant Jade Vega watched the shrinking planet with a mix of awe and fear. "Begin transmission," she said. "This is Commander Vega of the Artemis Colony. We've launched Phase II of the Terraforming Project. Our survival now depends on adapting Mars for human life."

Genre: _____

2. "I wasn't ready to read the letter. But my mother's voice played in my mind: 'There are things you need to know about our family... things we never told you.' I unfolded the envelope slowly. A faded black-and-white photograph of a young girl in a war-torn village dropped into my lap, and I knew this story would change everything."

Genre: _____

3. Step by step, the creature crept along the hallway. Its shadow warped beneath the flickering light as the wind howled outside. James gripped the blanket tighter. The whisper came again: "Let me in..." But the window was shut. The door was locked. And no one else was home.

Genre: _____

4. Each poem in this collection explores a single moment—a heartbeat, a breath, a fleeting feeling. Through free verse and vivid imagery, readers are invited into the poet's journey through grief, healing, and renewal. These are not just words; they are pieces of the soul, offered with raw honesty.

Genre: _____

5. Act II, Scene III. A candlelit study. Sebastian enters, holding a blood-stained scarf.
SEBASTIAN : "He was my brother, though I swore never to speak his name again. Yet here lies proof of his betrayal. And I, the fool, welcomed him into my home."

[Thunder. Enter Luciana, drenched from the storm.]

LUCIANA: "Sebastian, there is more you must hear..."

Genre: _____

