enre Lab Instructions: You are now a Literary Scientist in the Genre Lab. Below are five ixt samples from unidentified books. Your task is to: 1. Read each sample carefully. 2. Determine the genre of the passage. 3. Provide justification based on evidence from the text (1–2 sentences) Text Samples Sample A: The crew floated weightlessly inside the spacecraft. "Engage gravity control," said Commander Reyes. Outside the window, the red surface of Mars loomed closer as the countdown to atmospheric entry began. Genre: Justification: Sample B: "I swear, the attic door opened by itself," whispered Jesse, stepping backward. The sound of creaking wood came again, slow and deliberate. A chill settled over the room, and the flashlight flickered out. Genre: Justification: Sample C: "Rosa Parks didn't plan to be a hero," the narrator explained. "But on December 1, 1955, she refused to give up her seat to a white man on a segregated bus in Montgomery, Alabama. Her quiet defiance sparked a movement." Genre: Justification: Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure. Genre: Genre:	Name	-
2. Determine the genre of the passage. 3. Provide justification based on evidence from the text (1–2 sentences) Text Samples Sample A: The crew floated weightlessly inside the spacecraft. "Engage gravity control," said Commander Reyes. Outside the window, the red surface of Mars loomed closer as the countdown to atmospheric entry began. Genre: Justification: Sample B: "I swear, the attic door opened by itself," whispered Jesse, stepping backward. The sound of creaking wood came again, slow and deliberate. A chill settled over the room, and the flashlight flickered out. Genre: Justification: Sample C: "Rosa Parks didn't plan to be a hero," the narrator explained. "But on December 1, 1955, she refused to give up her seat to a white man on a segregated bus in Montgomery, Alabama. Her quiet defiance sparked a movement." Genre: Justification: Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.
Text Samples Sample A: The crew floated weightlessly inside the spacecraft. "Engage gravity control," said Commander Reyes. Outside the window, the red surface of Mars loomed closer as the countdown to atmospheric entry began. Genre: Justification: Sample B: "I swear, the attic door opened by itself," whispered Jesse, stepping backward. The sound of creaking wood came again, slow and deliberate. A chill settled over the room, and the flashlight flickered out. Genre: Justification: Sample C: "Rosa Parks didn't plan to be a hero," the narrator explained. "But on December 1, 1955, she refused to give up her seat to a white man on a segregated bus in Montgomery, Alabama. Her quiet defiance sparked a movement." Genre: Justification: Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.	1. Read each sample carefully.
Text Samples Sample A: The crew floated weightlessly inside the spacecraft. "Engage gravity control," said Commander Reyes. Outside the window, the red surface of Mars loomed closer as the countdown to atmospheric entry began. Genre:	2. Determine the genre of the passage.
Sample A: The crew floated weightlessly inside the spacecraft. "Engage gravity control," said Commander Reyes. Outside the window, the red surface of Mars loomed closer as the countdown to atmospheric entry began. Genre: Justification: Sample B: "I swear, the attic door opened by itself," whispered Jesse, stepping backward. The sound of creaking wood came again, slow and deliberate. A chill settled over the room, and the flashlight flickered out. Genre: Justification: Sample C: "Rosa Parks didn't plan to be a hero," the narrator explained. "But on December 1, 1955, she refused to give up her seat to a white man on a segregated bus in Montgomery, Alabama. Her quiet defiance sparked a movement." Genre: Justification: Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.	3. Provide justification based on evidence from the text (1–2 sentences)	_ control," said Commander Reyes. Outside the window, the red surface of Mars loomed closer as the countdown to atmospheric entry began. Genre: Justification: Sample B: "I swear, the attic door opened by itself," whispered Jesse, stepping backward. The sound of creaking wood came again, slow and deliberate. A chill settled over the room, and the flashlight flickered out. Genre: Justification: Sample C: "Rosa Parks didn't plan to be a hero," the narrator explained. "But on December 1, 1955, she refused to give up her seat to a white man on a segregated bus in Montgomery, Alabama. Her quiet defiance sparked a movement." Genre: Justification: Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.	Text Samples
Sample B: "I swear, the attic door opened by itself," whispered Jesse, stepping backward. The sound of creaking wood came again, slow and deliberate. A chill settled over the room, and the flashlight flickered out. Genre: Justification: Sample C: "Rosa Parks didn't plan to be a hero," the narrator explained. "But on December 1, 1955, she refused to give up her seat to a white man on a segregated bus in Montgomery, Alabama. Her quiet defiance sparked a movement." Genre: Justification: Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.	control," said Commander Reyes. Outside the window, the red surface of Mars loomed closer as the countdown to atmospheric entry began.
Sample B: "I swear, the attic door opened by itself," whispered Jesse, stepping backward. The sound of creaking wood came again, slow and deliberate. A chill settled over the room, and the flashlight flickered out. Genre: Justification: Sample C: "Rosa Parks didn't plan to be a hero," the narrator explained. "But on December 1, 1955, she refused to give up her seat to a white man on a segregated bus in Montgomery, Alabama. Her quiet defiance sparked a movement." Genre: Justification: Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.	Justification:	A
Sample C: "Rosa Parks didn't plan to be a hero," the narrator explained. "But on December 1, 1955, she refused to give up her seat to a white man on a segregated bus in Montgomery, Alabama. Her quiet defiance sparked a movement." Genre: Justification: Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.	over the room, and the flashlight flickered out.
December 1, 1955, she refused to give up her seat to a white man on a segregated bus in Montgomery, Alabama. Her quiet defiance sparked a movement." Genre: Justification: Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.	Justification:
Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.	December 1, 1955, she refused to give up her seat to a white man on a segregated bus
Sample D: When Ava entered the arena, her heart pounded. It was the final round of the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.	Genre:
the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from recycled materials. She had no idea if it would hold up under pressure.	Justification:
Genre:	the robotics championship, and her team's machine was the only one made from
	Genre:
Justification:	Justification:

