Tomorrow's Trade

Directions: Write a short essay predicting how future technology will reshape global trade, communication, and cooperation. Use clear reasoning, specific examples, and imaginative yet realistic predictions. Your essay should include an introduction, at least two body paragraphs, and a conclusion.

Prompt: Technology has always been at the heart of globalization. From the printing press to the internet, each innovation has brought people and nations closer together. As we look ahead, new technologies such as artificial intelligence, quantum computing, renewable energy, and space-based communication could redefine how the world works together.

In your essay, discuss:

1. How future technologies might change the way countries trade goods and services.
2. How communication between nations and individuals could evolve.
3. How global cooperation might improve-or face new challenges-because of these changes.
