Crow's Lesson

Directions: Read the fable carefully. Think about what the crow did and what lesson it teaches. Circle the letter of the best moral of the story.

A hungry crow spotted a piece of bread on a windowsill. He quickly grabbed it in his beak and flew to a tall tree. Another bird called out, "That's a nice snack you have!" The crow puffed up with pride and opened his beak to boast. The bread slipped from his mouth and fell to the ground, where the other bird snatched it up. The greedy crow was left with nothing to eat.

Treasure Choices (Possible Morals):

- A. It is better to share than to boast.
- B. Always fly higher than other birds.
- C. Bread tastes better than seeds.
- D. Birds should never talk to each other.

Extension Question: Write one sentence about how the crow could have acted differently to keep his bread.
