Word Mix-Up Fix

Directions: Read the paragraph below. It's full of misused homophones that make it sound confusing! Rewrite the paragraph correctly by replacing each wrong word with the right one. Be sure your version makes perfect sense.

There was a loud cheer when the principle announced that the school play would begin next week. The main role went to my best friend, who couldn't believe she was aloud to sing on stage. I wanted to help her practice her lines, so I met her every night after dinner. One day, she tripped and hurt her knee, but she said it didn't effect her much. When the big day finally came, the audience gave her a huge round of applause-she really did a great job!
