"A Day at the Park"

I watch the ducks drift on the lake,
As children play and leaves fall down.
A boy holds a shiny bat in hand,
While a fly buzzes all around.

The trees bark when the wind blows strong,
A puppy gives his own loud cheer.
A ring of laughter fills the air,
The light of day grows warm and clear.

A man throws bread to the swimming seal,
His watch gleams bright beneath the sun.
We'll park the bikes near the old oak tree,
Our day of words is nearly done.
