

Name _____

Exploring North America

Directions: Read the passage below. Then answer the questions that follow. Keep your answers clear and complete.

Exploring North America

North America is a large and diverse continent filled with fascinating places to discover. It is home to three major countries: the United States, Canada, and Mexico. Each country has its own landscapes, languages, and traditions that make it unique.

Across the continent, you can find some of the world's most famous landmarks. In the United States, the Grand Canyon stretches across northern Arizona with deep, colorful cliffs carved by the Colorado River. Canada is known for Niagara Falls, a powerful waterfall that thunders between Ontario and New York. In Mexico, the ancient ruins of Chichen Itza show the incredible achievements of the Maya civilization.

North America also has many different regions. The Arctic tundra covers the far north, where the land stays cold and frozen for much of the year. Farther south, warm deserts appear in places like Mexico and the southwestern United States. Thick forests, wide plains, and tall mountain ranges spread across the continent, creating habitats for animals such as bison, bears, eagles, and wolves.

Whether you explore its bustling cities or peaceful natural wonders, North America offers endless opportunities to learn about people, places, and cultures.

1. What are the three major countries located in North America?
2. Describe one famous landmark mentioned in the passage and explain why it is well known.
3. What is one example of a region in North America and what makes it unique?
4. Name two animals that live somewhere on the continent.
5. Why do you think North America is described as diverse?