Teacher's Guide

- Review what a thesis statement does. Remind students it presents a main idea that needs clear, related support.
- Guide struggling learners by having them underline key words in each thesis before reading the subtopics.
- Encourage students to cross out subtopics that clearly do not match, narrowing the choices.
- Invite advanced students to rewrite one thesis and create two new supporting subtopics of their own.
- Consider group discussion where pairs justify their matches to build reasoning and communication skills.
