Teacher Notes/Guide

- This worksheet helps students track which character's perspective is being revealed in narration.
- Point out that in limited narration, usually only one character's thoughts are shown, while in omniscient narration, we can peek into multiple characters' minds.
- Struggling students can underline thought words (like wondered, hoped, wished, thought).
- Extension task gives students practice writing perspective, not just identifying it.
