Exit Slip: POV Check Answer Key

1. First-person - uses I, my to show the narrator is a character in the story.
2. Second-person - directly addresses the reader with you, your.
3. Third-person limited - narrator reveals only Daniel's inner thoughts/feelings.
4. Third-person omniscient - narrator reveals Lena's hopes and Mateo's confidence.
5. Third-person objective - narrator describes only actions/behaviors, no inner thoughts revealed.

Teacher Notes/Guide

- Great as a quick comprehension check at the end of a lesson (exit ticket format).
- Encourage students to highlight pronouns and underline any thought/feeling words to justify their answers.
- Note: Passage 5 introduces third-person objective, which shows only what can be seen or heard (no inner thoughts). This is useful for advanced learners.
- Differentiation tip:
 - Beginners: identify only first, second, or third person.
 - Advanced: distinguish between limited, omniscient, and objective.
