Teacher's Guide

- Differentiation Tips:
  - Read each pair aloud and define cause and effect clearly before starting.
  - Provide sentence stems such as "If I choose to..., the result might be..." to guide thinking.
  - Allow students to use colored pencils to visually link matching pairs.
- Engagement Ideas:
  - Have students act out one poor and one positive choice to explore differences in tone and emotion.
  - Discuss real-life examples of how actions affect others in school, online, or at home.
  - Encourage students to rewrite one negative cause into a positive alternative.
- Extension Activities:
  - Students create their own "cause-and-effect" scenarios showing healthy and unhealthy social decisions.
  - Use a reflection journal prompt: "What is one cause and effect I experienced this week?"
  - Combine with a group discussion on accountability and how every action leads to a reaction.
