When the Words Don't Match the Task

Not all prompts are bad because they're vague-sometimes they're bad because they're misleading. The words sound fine, but the task doesn't match the request. That means the AI (and you) could end up confused. Your challenge: read each broken prompt, figure out what's wrong, and then rewrite it into two fixed versions that actually make sense.

Broken Prompt 1
"Write a poem about World War II that includes a timeline of events."

What's wrong? _____

Fixed Version 1: _____

Fixed Version 2: _____

Broken Prompt 2
"Explain the scientific method in a short story about a dragon."

What's wrong? _____

Fixed Version 1: _____

Fixed Version 2: _____

Broken Prompt 3
"List the steps of photosynthesis in a one-paragraph summary about why plants are important to culture."

What's wrong? _____

Fixed Version 1: _____

Fixed Version 2: _____
