Same Idea, Different Crowd

When you write a prompt, the audience matters. A chef, a military officer, and a scientist don't all need the same kind of explanation. Your challenge: take each of the three prompts below and rewrite it three times—once for a chef, once for a military officer, and once for a scientist. Pay attention to the language, tone, and focus that would make sense for each audience.

Prompt 1 - "Explain the importance of teamwork."

For a Chef: _____

For a Military Officer: _____

For a Scientist: _____

Prompt 2- "Describe the process of solving a problem."

For a Chef: _____

For a Military Officer: _____

For a Scientist: _____

Prompt 3 - "Explain why clear communication matters."

For a Chef: _____

For a Military Officer: _____

For a Scientist: _____
