Directions: Read the passage carefully. Underline all of the pronouns in the passage. For each pronoun you underline, write it in the chart below. In the second column, write the antecedent (the word it refers to). In the third column, check if they agree in number and meaning. If the pronoun does not agree, write the correct form in the last column.

The hiking club planned their trip to the mountains carefully. Each of the members checked their backpack the night before. Maria reminded the group that everyone should bring their water bottles. The team carried their gear onto the bus, and the committee announced their decision about safety rules. Somebody forgot their sleeping bag, but the twins said he could share theirs. At the campsite, every camper pitched their tent, and one of the leaders explained their plan for the evening hike.
