Teacher's Guide

- Have students tap or clap the blend and the ending before writing to strengthen phonological awareness.
- Model how to blend by slowly sliding the beginning into the ending.
- Provide a word bank for students who need extra support, or remove the endings for advanced students and let them come up with their own.
- Encourage partner practice where students read their completed words to each other for fluency.
- Add an extension by challenging students to sort the completed words by vowel type or by real vs. silly words if you choose to mix in a few playful endings.
