Teacher's Guide

- Have students preview the word bank before reading the story. Ask them to identify the r-controlled vowel pattern in each word.
- Encourage students to read the entire sentence before choosing a word so they rely on both phonics and context clues.
- Provide support by grouping words with the same r-controlled pattern together for students who need help noticing patterns.
- For extension, have students rewrite two sentences from the story using different r-controlled vowel words they brainstorm on their own.
