

Choose The Ending Answer Key

Responses will vary but should show understanding of social responsibility and empathy. Example responses:

1. Lesson: Standing up for others shows kindness.
2. Lesson: Communication solves misunderstandings.
3. Lesson: Accidents happen; responding calmly helps.
4. Lesson: Inclusion makes everyone feel valued.
5. Lesson: Respecting others' feelings builds trust.

Teacher's Guide

- Objective: Teach students to think critically about social choices and practice self-awareness, empathy, and positive decision-making through role-play.
- Differentiation Tips:
 - Read scenarios aloud for auditory learners or students with reading challenges.
 - Offer written sentence starters for "poor" and "positive" endings.
 - Allow verbal responses instead of written ones for students who need it.
- Engagement Ideas:
 - Have small groups perform both endings in front of the class for discussion.
 - Encourage peers to identify which version showed empathy or respect.
 - Use role-play cards with emotion prompts like "angry," "nervous," or "embarrassed."
- Extension Activities:
 - Ask students to write their own "What Happens Next?" scenario from real life.
 - Hold a reflection circle to discuss how real-world conflicts can have multiple outcomes.
 - Create a "Positive Choices Wall" where students post lessons learned from each scenario.
