Teacher's Guide

- Review the rounding rule before students begin. Remind them to check the digit immediately to the right of the rounding place.
- Encourage students to underline or circle the place value they are rounding to before solving.
- Provide a place value chart for students who need additional support.
- Challenge advanced students to explain why each number rounds up or down using complete sentences.
- Have pairs compare answers and explain any differences before checking with the answer key.
- Extend the lesson by having students create four multi-digit numbers for a classmate to round to different place values.
