Teacher's Guide

- Use this worksheet to help students connect descriptive vocabulary to the five senses. Review each sense before beginning.
- Provide verbal examples to support emerging readers. For instance, ask students what they might smell at a bakery or what they might hear on a playground.
- For differentiation, allow students to sort the words by circling instead of writing, or read the words aloud for students who need help decoding.
- For engagement, let students act out or demonstrate a word before sorting it.
- For extension, invite students to draw one item for each sense using words from their completed list or create their own new sensory words to add to the chart.
