Yesterday's Market

Directions: Read the passage below. It is written in the present tense. Rewrite the passage in the simple past tense so the story describes something that already happened.

Every Saturday, Emma goes to the market with her father. She walks through the busy stalls and looks at the colorful fruits and vegetables. Emma chooses apples, bananas, and oranges while her father talks to the farmers. After shopping, they eat sandwiches at a small café near the market. Finally, they ride their bikes home and put away the groceries.
