Zog's Corrections

Directions: An alien historian named Zog tried to write about human history, but it used the wrong verb tense. Read Zog's "translation" carefully. Rewrite the underlined verbs into the simple past tense so Earth's history makes sense again!

Zog's Report (with mistakes)

"Long ago, humans build large stone pyramids in Egypt. They carry heavy blocks across the desert and place them carefully on top of each other. Later, explorers discover new lands across the oceans. Christopher Columbus sail across the Atlantic and meet people living in the Americas.

In the 20th century, humans invent amazing machines. The Wright brothers fly the first airplane, and Neil Armstrong step onto the Moon. People everywhere celebrate this moment as one of the greatest achievements in history. They also create art, music, and technology that change the way humans lived forever."
