Teacher Notes

- Students may identify different details, but they must be text-based.
- Emphasize that time isn't just the clock, it can also be clues like "dark night" or "moonlight."
- Accept variations in mood descriptions (e.g., "calm," "spooky," "peaceful"), as long as they are supported with evidence.
- Extension idea: Have students draw a "snapshot" of the setting using details from the text, then write a caption describing the time and place.
