Writing Topic Sentences

Directions: Read each paragraph. Write a strong topic sentence that clearly matches the main idea.

The small library room has shelves filled with old and new books. Students visit during lunch to read quietly or borrow a story for later. The librarian keeps cozy chairs in the corner so readers can relax while they explore different genres.

Every winter, people bring their sleds to the tallest hill in the neighborhood. Some zoom straight down, while others like to race their friends. When the sun sets, the icy path sparkles and families take one last slide before walking home.

In the science lab, students measure liquids with beakers and use tools to observe tiny objects. They record their discoveries in notebooks and share what they found with partners. The class enjoys trying new experiments and learning how things work.
