Teacher's Guide

- Review the difference between main idea and small details before students begin.
- Have students underline one sentence in the passage that supports each true statement.
- For support, discuss each statement as a class and ask, What is the story really teaching?
- For engagement, let students turn one false statement into a true message-based statement.
- For extension, ask students to write one new true and one new false statement about the author's message.
- For enrichment, challenge students to explain how one sentence in the passage helps reveal the theme.
